

TRANSCRIPT – TIME REVEALS THE UNSEEN – YANDELL WALTON

Sound and Spoken Word Artist – Rebecca Riggs-Bennett

Breathing, inhaling, and exhaling

Why haven't we learned yet?

(whispered) Why haven't we learned yet?

(whispered) We will mourn the past...

(whispered) The past and the future and the past...

(whispered) There is a point of no return. A point in time.

It takes a lot to reverse irreversible damage.

(whispered) We tried our best.

(whispered) Ever be changed.

There is no turning back.

(whispered) There is no turning back.

(whispered) A bigger impact. To change.

How beautiful it is.

(whispered) We're all aware.

(whispered) Takes a lot to reverse irreversible damage.

(whispered) So many people...

So many people, that all disappear.

(whispered) Massive change.

Massive change. Ever be changed.

Control the worst outcome.

(whispered) Control the worst outcome.

Control how beautiful it is.

(whispered) Hopefully, hopeless, hoping.

I can't see into the future.

A hundred years that all disappear.

Massive.

We're still existing.

(whispered) We're still existing, on the...

(whispered) We're still existing.

The planet earth, on the moon.

(whispered) The planet earth, on the...

(whispered) Massive. Massive.

Prevent and stop the trajectory.

Inform... our conscious.

(whispered) Time.

Time.

(whispered) Sustain.

Actions inform.

(whispered) The unseen is revealed.

(whispered) The unseen...reveals...

The unseen reveals irreversible damage.

I'm conscious...

I'm conscious of how beautiful it is.

(whispered) Of how beautiful it is.

And it all disappears.

And that's the tipping point.

We tried our best.
